

CHURCH GROUP TIME

What is Church Group Time?

Church Group Time is a dedicated time each evening for your group to reconnect after a full day of camp. It gives you space to hear from your campers about their day, revisit what they learned, and reinforce the daily theme together. This time is designed to be relational, reflective, and a meaningful way to process the camp experience as a group.

What do you do during Church Group Time?

During this time, Adult Leaders typically check in with campers about their day, talk through the daily theme, and create space for discussion, prayer, and encouragement. This is also a great space to share announcements, as it is often the last time your entire group is together before the evening winds down.

A Church Group Time Guide is included in the Adult Leader Guide given to you at camp. and it provides suggested questions and simple activities to help lead the conversation. This guide is meant to support you, while still allowing flexibility to meet the needs of your group.

When and where does Church Group Time happen?

Each night after Worship and before Evening Hang Time. Your Camp Director will assign your group a location to meet at. This location can be found on your Location Guide, which you will receive at Check-In, and it will also be shared in the GroupMe on Day 1.

Who leads Church Group Time?

Church Group Time is led by the Group Leader or an Adult Leader from your group. This time is intentionally set aside for your group to connect after a long day of camp.

Because you know your campers best, you are encouraged to lead the conversation, guide discussion, and care for your campers during this time!

How can a CentriKid Staffer help?

Each group is assigned a CentriKid Staffer, also known as your Church Group Host. The CentriKid Staffers role is to support you during Church Group Time, not to lead it. Staffers are happy to help you find your meeting location, pass out materials, answer questions, or share their testimony (if invited to). They are there to serve as a resource and encouragement for you and your group!

If you ever choose to do something different during Church Group Time, simply let your Church Group Host know, so they know where to find you or whether to join your group.

Church Group Time is one of the most meaningful opportunities for your church to reflect, reconnect, and reinforce what God is teaching your campers throughout the week.
